THE INVESTIGATION COMM

ISPECIAL Telegrable Correspondence of the Counter-Australia.

THE INVESTIGATION COMMITTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., ADRII BI.—The Joint committee of iwenty-one appointed by Congress to investigate the condition of the Southers States has adjourned to meet here the 17th of May to decide what programme shall be mapped out to serve the purposes of the investigation. Nothing has yet been decided, owing to the variance of views submitted by members. Some desire to remsu in Washington and to have witnesses summoned here, while others propose that the committee shall be divided into seven sub-committees of three members cach, and make a trip this spring and another one in the fall. It is believed the committee will decide to enter on the investigation in May and take evidence in the South, and then return to Washington and sit for witnesses to be summoned. There have been torty thou sand deliers airends appropriated by the committee, and it is estimated that it will take at least 860,000 more.

WORK OF THE SUPREME COURT.

The Suprame Court announced to-day that it would hear no more argument on the merits of cases at this term. On Monday the court will render a number of important decisions, but the legal tender cases will not be among them, though an effort will be made to deliver the decision at this term. The Chief Justice, who still presides over the court, will remain here for that purpose. The counsel for the Government have no doubt that the court will reverse the decision of hasterm, and decide the legal tender act constitution al. The old decision, it will be remembered, held that it was not constitution as a countrate made before the war.

NO TROODS FOR THE FRONTIER.

Application has recently been made at army headquarters for additional troops to protect the frontier in Arizona, but General Sheiman replies that Congress has so reduced the army, and the demand for troops in the South is such, that so far from sending troops to the frontier he is obliged to take troops from that section and send them to the South

The President, just before he left, ordered the accounting officers of tue Treasury to pay the United States Marshal's office, in New York, fifty seven thousand dollars for the expenses of the enforcement act or Federal election law in New York last fall. Hantonn, April 21.—The canvassers who met to-day to officially canvass the roturns of the vote for Governor and other State officers, will report the following figures to the Legislature: James E. Euglish, 47,492; Marshall Jewell, 47,490; actoring, 17. This gives Euglish as majority of 25.

There was a manifest error in giving Eaglish two too many in Somers, which, if the Legislature corrects it, will reduce his total 47,490. There are classresing returns from Cheeppers, where a full investigation will, no doubt, add twenty-three to Jowell's vote, making his total 47,473, which, with evening the country of the control of the catteriog, three, and possibly six votes, will be counted by the Legislature for English. There is a statement, nowever, from the New Hyen Moderstor, of a probable mistake in the Fourih ward count, giving 100 too many for English, and from Enfield giving 14 too many for English, and from Enfield giving 14 too many for English, and from Enfield giving 14 too many for English. These statements will go to the Legi-lature, and if the mistakes are shown there, as claimed, Jowell will be declared Governor by a majority of 192 Danger P. Nicholla (Rep.) Treasurer by 256 majority, Owing to uniformity in the returns, and iscorrectly spelled ballots, the canwassers cannot declare that any one has a majority for Secretary of State or Comptroller. The address of the Democratic men of Congress proves, carries out and sustains the general course marked down by the COURER-JOURNAL immediately after the ratification of the Fliteenth amend-ment. There is to be no fighting over of disastrous battles. The campaign for the Presidency is to be made on live issues. Without stultifying its convictions, or going back upon its declarations, the Democratic party will contend for the restoration to the people of their local self-government, and the infusion into the public service of a responsible and upright spirit. For urging this simple formula, we have been denounced frequently. We trust now that we shall hear no more of that sort of thing. It is time to close ranks and pre-pare for the march. The conservative forces cannot afford to wrangle in the face of the enemy, and it shall be no fault of ours if there is not perfect harmony

Interior Enterprise.

The initiative toward the construction of this important line of railroad has been taken by the citizens of Paris. At the an ordinance was adopted commanding an election in that city on 18th May next, on the proposition of subscribing $50,000 to the capital stock of the company. This amount of bona fide subscription is reorganized and steps immediately taken to secure subscriptions from Bourbon, Montgomery, Nicholas, Scott and Frank-self particularly upon her pure air lin counties, and from the city of Louis-Louisville to have connection with the Ohio and Chesapeake Railroad, and we believe our people desire to see such connection so greatly that they will lend individual aid to accomplish it. Whether the Frankfort, Paris, and Big Sandy Railroad, or the Lex-ington and Big Sandy Railroad, offers the better connection for Louisville and the more speedy and certain, is yet to be seen. Louisville will no doubt make the wisest choice between them, or may con-tribute to both. It is a question only to be determined by our people themselves. The citizens of Louisville will be glad to learn that the initial step has been ta-ken in the F., P. and Big Sandy railroad, and that the friends of the Lexington and Big Sandy, and the Covington, Maysville and Big Sandy railroad, are urging the claims of their respective lines. Paris and Bourbon county seem to be more wide awake than other points and sections in-terested. It is matter of some wonder-ment that the great and rich county of Scott, nearly able to build the road herself, and the county of Franklin, the site of the State capital, have manifested so little interest on the subject. Now is the chance for Frankfort and Franklin county to secure another line of railroad and prevent her being cut off by running a line from Shelbyville or Taylorsville direct to Lexington. She has a chance now of placing herself forever on a straight and unchangeable line of a great natural route from the Mississippi to the seaboard. Scott county is off of all lines, and now has the opportunity to seize the advantage, and connect herself with the commercial capital of the State, with Lexington. Sue has a chance now of The New York Sun thinks that General means so uppopular.

The National Gnards of Paris, besides whose people she has interest, feelings and sympathics in common, and at the same tips claims as a Republican nomines for re-

The Paris Citizen, of the 18th inst., has quite an elaborate article on this subject, in which it presents a table of distances by the different routes from Louisville to Grayson, this latter being the point to which the road is now built from the mouth of the Big Sandy, and a common point to all the lines. We present this table to our readers:

Louisvil'e to Lexington (air lin-) Lexington to Grayson, about,........

Total distance...... Total distance.....

BOUTE VIA PARIS TO MOUTH OF BIG SANDY

This table, which we believe to be nearly accurate, shows that the route through Paris direct to Grayson is about fifty miles shorter than the route via Coving ton, sixteen miles shorter than the rou via Lexington, and twenty-two miles shorter than the route via Maysville. We are known to be favorable to all wisely-devised schemes of public improve ment, and we shall rejoice to see any or all of these proposed roads built. They will contribute immensely to the comfort, convenience and wealth of the people and of the State.

The Kuklux Atrocity. The Mariux Atrocity.

The most atrocious piece of legislation which has blackened the annals of the Congress of the United States has just passed into a law of the land. The Kuklux bill, which strikes down States and citizens. It is an act of war. By it, all that freedo: dreads is possible. Under it, every outrag ipon civil and personal libe upon civil and personal liberty may be easily and sately accomplished. And yet, in spite of all this, it creates not half so much ado as the appointment of a negro mail agent on the line of com-

A people who are proscribed can not afford either to be proscriptive or to tolerate proscription. Every act of intolerance on our part tends to rivet the chains that already bind us and to torge new me already bind us and to lorge new manacles for our handa. Our mission is, if we may be allowed to quote the elo-quent words of the Democratic address, "to revive in all hearts the feeling of friendship, affection and harmony, which are the best guarantees of law and order. and to throw around the humblest citize nental law of the land."

The negro question will settle uself.

Meanwhile, if we expect it to be settled in a way that will benefit us, we must treat it in a spirit of liberality and kindness. A greater question lies before us. The free-dom and enfranchisement of the blacks are beyond our reach. There is more profanity in Congress just now than at any former period in the history of that body. Senator Davis says Representative BUTLER is "a d-d scour drei." Senator Chandler says Senator Schurz; a New England Senator says President Grant is "a d—d fool;" and thus they go on constantly. It is no wonder that even Parson BrownLow pronounces some of his con-temporaries "a h—l of a set of black-

The Chicago Tribune thinks that quired to effect an organization. The Madazines. The Gelixiy for May. The May number of the Gelixy contains a continuation of its three serial novels—one by Justin McCarthy, mother by J. De Forest and the third by Mrs. Edwards. These are very good, as novels go, with the exception of the second one, which is about an brutally sensational as any vicey we ever read, but it is evidently drawing to a close, and its piace will soon be filled with something better. By fart the best article of this number is the one by Justin McCarthy upon the Duke of Cambridge, who is now General Commanding in Chief of the English army. Mr. McCarthy says of asin: "He is so respectable and so dull that it is, a wooder he has not been popular in England." But for all this, he occupies the place formerly held by the Duke of Weilington, and is first consin to the Queen, and if the proposed army reorganization now under debate in England is garried, not only cowindice, but of utter incapacity and fleid nervelesses." The article continues in a similar style to show what other impositions will be removed end abuses checked, if good sense can win the day in the Biltish Parliament over articles to obtinacy and prejudice. And who that is familiar with the English people can deabt the result? Edward Crapacy, in his fourth paper upon the Nother Side of New York, exposes the counterfeit money swindle, a mat er that has been pretty well ventilated already through the daily press. The Campaigns of Robert E. Lee is the title of another paper, a subject, it strikes us, all too mighty to be compressed within the pages of a magazine article. Junius Henri Browne writes upon Woman's Rights Aesthetically, and there are some pleasant extracts traveisted from Baron Hubner's Life of Sixtus the Fifth, giving an account of a journey through Itsly to Rome three hundred years ago. Two articles of light fiction, and the usual editorial miscellasmy complete the prere contents of this number. There are three pieces of poetry, of which the one by Bayard Tajlor alone deserves mention. Donn Pistt succeeds Mark Twain in the serious and solemn busness of conductive the hungaroom.

Mr. Cook—Did you do ut? A.—No. air of the press contents of this number. There are three pieces of poetry, of which the one by Bayard Tajlor alone deserves mention. Donn Pistt succeeds Mark Twain in the serious and solemn busness of conductive the hungaroom. Patt succeds Mark I wain in the serious and solemn business of corducting the humorons department of the Galaxy, and seems to appreciate somewhat the lugurious nature of bis task. If the proprietors will give the public bis picture again, when he retires from his pocition, we would not be surprised if it were even more wee-begone than his portrait that (we wish we could say ornaments) forms an addition to this number.

The Atlantic Monthly.

The May number of this magazine is at hand, and opens with a scholarly article upon the origin of many popular superstitions, beginning with a narristion of an incident that happened to the writer in testing the vaunted powers of the witch hazel to discover hidden springs of water. The twig, that bent for all others, was provokingly rapid for him; all owing, as the proprietor of the magic wand averred, "to the peculiar temperament of the writer." The origin of this curious belief is then traced in a very charming way that shows deep scholarship but not the slighest trace of pedastry. The story of the little hine flower, forget me not, is told as follows: "A man traveling on a lonely mountain picks up a little blue flower and sticks it in his hat. Forwith an iron door opens, showing up a lighted pessage way, through which the man advances into a magnificent hall, where diamonds and all other kines of gens are lying in heaps on the floor. As he eagerly fills his pockets, his hat drops from his head, and when he turns to go out, the little flower calls after him, "Forget me not." He turns back, but never thinks of his bare head, and as he passes through the door out of the hall, the mountair closes these oid tales is that, in see many of them, is wrapped up some mythical conception, some ingenious allegory of which those who tell them are utterly ignorant. The connection of the witch-hasel with this is of course not spparent in our notice, but it is clear enough in the article itself. The easay that follows upon the Organization of Labor, is too deep for ordinary magazine readers, but is well worth perusal by all who look in the Atlantic for something more than amusement. The article eatilited the Campboils are Commsg, gives a timely account of the great cian whose youthful chief has lately done Miss Guelph the honor of making her his wite. John Hay writes pleasantly in its fourth article upon Castilian Days, of Cervantes and Lope de Vegr; and Clarence King gives some interesting notes of experi-

As Mr. Snyder stepped to the witness stand there was a perceptible finiter in the audience, and Mrs. Fair, smilling slightly, and down in her chair as if she did not feel any very strong desire to gaze upon his counternace. His step was more than clastic, it was window to bounding. He wore a coat bufforced scross his breast, an into a single ruffle could be seen in the "hap?" of the glossy slik hat which he bore in his land, and lay quietly on the railing of the clerk's desk. When he was called upon to assume the attitude of obligation, he did so promptly; threw his chest forward, and ms left hand behind and accuss his back. the rendition of the Marriage of Figaro by the Engish- Opera Combination. Mozar's grand work was presented in a manner not unworthy of the high standing of the company.

The principal parts were well sustained. In consequence of the illness of Miss Emms Howson, Mrs. C. Elchings-Bernard personated susanns, and, though her acting was slightly wasting in the graceful precision which she displayed on Thursday night, as Vaicatine, in the Hugenots, her singing was unexceptionable. A more powerful rendering of the celebrated duet in the third act, where the Countess (Miss Ress Hersee, pitciases the letter to Saranna (Mrs. Bernard) has seldom bean witnessed. The appliance at its clo. e was vectlerous, and an undenlable demand for its repetition was gracefully conceded. Mrs. Zelda Seguin, as Cherubino, made a most favorable impression, in the title role Mr. S. C. Campbell made an able display of his operatic powers. Mr. Beast Braylon personated Count Almarder. And chorus were displayed to the Operation and chorus were displayed to the Count Almarder. Thus Exp. Well count.
